ELKS DANCE SWELLS FUND FOR CHARITY

Between $900 and $1000 Realized from Annual Ball

650 MEMBERS ATTEND

Candy and Kewpie Dolls Sold Aid in Increase of Xmas Benevolence

The Christmas charity dance given by the Glendale lodge of Elks No. 1289 at the clubhouse Saturday night was the most successful affair of its kind given in Glendale. According to Joe Bellue, chairman of the committee in charge, between $800 and $1000 was cleared, which will augment the club funds for Christmas charity work. Over 650 members and friends of the local lodge were in attendance. Under the direction of Harry F. McPherson and James Apffel a large quantity of candy and kewpie dolls were sold during the evening, the proceeds from which will also go towards charity.

In order to accommodate the large crowd both the main ballroom and also the "jinks" room were in use constantly. Bode's and Moniot's orchestras donated their services for the evening. Music on the first floor was furnished by Bode's orchestra, the members of which included William Bode, director and saxaphonist; F. L. Jackson, saxaphone; L. E. Wilbur, trumpet; E. H. Kerri, trumpet; H. G. Henning, piano; I. S. Brown, trombrone; F. Kelshaw, banjo; R. G. Flint, drums; C. M. Burke, tuba, all of whom are also members of the Elks' band. Moniot's syncopaters furnished music in the "jinks" room, the members of this orchestra including Ed Moniot, director and banjo player; Marion Jones, piano; Chick Theck, saxaphone; Herbert Brooks, violin; Dale Crampton, drums.

The customary 11 o'clock toast was given by Exalted Ruler Arthur Dibbern in the main ballroom and by Esteemed Lecturing Knight Gerald Dockeray in the jinks room. During the evening refreshments of punch and wafers were served. The committee in charge of this delightful social function included Joe Bellue, chairman; Harry Whaley, William Bode and Gerald Dockeray.

PLANS FOR THE BIG NEEL HOME ARE COMPLETED

Charlton & Brainerd, architects in the Central building, report the completion of plans for a beautiful residence on Mountain street to be built by the Stevens Construction company for Captain J. A. Neel.

It will be of stucco exterior and contain ten rooms—a living room, dining room, kitchen, music room and screened porch on the first floor, four bedrooms and bath on second floor, and an amusement hall in the basement.

In the living room there will be a large tiled fireplace and in the music room a brick one. Hardwood floors will be laid throughout the house, and when completed it will cost in the neighborhood of $11,000, the plans providing for a 2-story double garage with living quarters, and for a swimming pool in the garden.

The site is an L-shaped plat of ground with a frontage of 60 feet on Mountain already improved with a bearing orchard of fine deciduous fruit; it will be further improved by landscape gardeners. As it stands several feet above the plane of the sidewalk, it will be terraced to provide a proper approach to the street.

EAST SIDE HOTEL COMMITTEE MEETS

A meeting of the hotel committee of the Glendale Advancement association was held this morning. The details of the new hotel proposition were decided upon.

At 10 o'clock a representative of the financing company that will take up the matter putting through this new hotel proposition, was present and arguments were made that may result in the construction of the proposed hotel at the corner of Glendale avenue and Broadway without a great deal of delay, it was announced.

STEAL PILE OF LUMBER

A large pile of fence lumber was stolen from 103 North Verdugo road Saturday afternoon, according to Mrs. J. P. Lukins, of that address. The lumber was piled on a truck, which was backed up to it. The police were notified, but when they arrived on the scene the lumber thief had disappeared.

COLLECTION STARTS ON SUBSCRIPTIONS TO BONUS LINE

The matter of collecting the funds for the electrification of the Union Pacific's line on Glendale, was started in earnest this morning by P. J. Hayselden, chairman of the combined railroad committee. Workers were put in the field and it is believed that these, in conection with the large number of subscriptions that are being turned into the bank, will result in all of the money being in the bank within a short time.

SCHOOL PROBLEMS MARK OAKLAND MEETING

R. D. White Returns from Convention of School Superintendents

Richardson D. White, superintendent of Glendale public schools, returned Sunday morning somewhat the worse for his week in Oakland, where he went to attend the convention of school superintendents and was taken so ill he had to spend one day in bed. He is quite recovered now, but thinks he had a touch of ptomaine or some kindred poisoning.

He says it was the most practical convention of its kind he has ever attended as the time was given to discussion of school problems rather than inspirational addresses. One of special interest to him was brought up by County Superintendent Mark Keppel, chairman of legislation, and concerned methods of bringing about the consolidation of school districts. One suggestion favored making high schools the unit of administration. If applied to Glendale it would mean that all the schools in the high school district would be subject to a high school board elected by the district and it would effect a considerable saving in overhead expense, besides unifying the systems. Another proposition would make the matter optional with the grammar schools affected rather than a general law which would govern all the schools in the state.

Superintendent Wood presided and he was instructed to appoint a committee to formulate a means of promoting closer co-operation between the boy scout organization and the schools with a view to the possibility of incorporating the scout movement as a part of the school system, because of its great educational, moral and disciplinary value.

After discussion of possible amendments to the "part time act," it was agreed that it is pretty good as it stands.

Another theme of discussion concerned the indefinite status of a school superintendent as to his powers and duties under the school law. The general opinion seemed to be there would be less friction if the matter were left elastic as at present than if the powers of a superintendent as opposed to those of the board he serves were more closely defined.

Making preparation and experience the basis of salary, as is done in San Diego schools, was also discussed. There it makes no difference whether a teacher is in the kindergarten or the high school, her preparation and experience determine her pay. No agreement was reached on this proposition.

COMMUNITY SERVICE TO BE PLANNED

Directors to Adopt General Policy for Work This Evening

COMMITTEES TO REPORT

Constitution to Be Adopted for Submission to Organization Body

The board of directors of Glendale Community Service will meet tonight in Room 129, Glendale Union High School, at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of adopting a general policy for the work in Glendale and passing on reports of various committees, including program, social and physical recreation, music, drama, etc. This meeting is being called by V. M. Hollister, president of Glendale Community Service, and one of the principal features will be the adoption of a constitution which will be submitted by the organization committee.

POSTOFFICE POET IS RECOGNIZED IN GLENDALE

At the recent annual meeting of postoffice employes the following poem was read by F. W. Walker, superintendent of mails. D. Ripley Jackson, the postmaster, thought so much of it that he had several copies made and is now passing them out to Glendale.

THE OTHER FELLOW'S JOB

There's a craze among us mortals
that is cruel hard to name,
Wheresoe'er you find a human you will find the case the same;
You may seek among the worst of men or seek among the best,
And you'll find that every person is precisely like the rest.
Each believes that his real calling is along some other line
Than the one at which he's working take for instance, yours and mine;
From the meanest "me-too" creature to the leader of the mob,
There's a universal craving for
"the other fellow's job."

There are millions of positions in the busy world today,
Each a drudge to him who holds
it, but to him who doesn't play;
Every farmer's brokenhearted that in youth he missed his call,
While that same unhappy farmer is the envy of us all.
Any task you care to mention
seems a vastly better lot
Than the one especial something which you happen to have got.
There's but one sure way to smother envy's heartache and her sob:
Keep too busy at your own to want
"the other fellow's job."

Horse Shoers Hold Hotly Contested Meet

The tournament between members of the local horseshoe club and champions of the South Park Club Saturday was a most interesting contest although the honors went to the five visiting teams with a score of 27 to 23. The Glendale stars were McBride and Suiter, who won 9 out of 10 games. Other teams were Porter and Anstey; Neiter and Schindler; Payne and Langford; Hyatt and Pecoy.

Besides the local crowd that assembled to watch the contest there were many spectators from Los Angeles and Santa Monica.

ANTI-ANNEXATION ORGANIZATION IS TO BE FORMED TONIGHT AT HIGH

Glendale for Glendale will be the slogan of the meeting tonight at Glendale Union High School, called by loyal Glendalians to fight the propaganda which is still working in the city for the annexation of this city to Los Angeles.

All loyal citizens who believe in preserving the integrity of the city under its own name are invited to the meeting tonight at 8 o'clock to form a permanent anti-annexation organization.

Let us mark Thanksgiving this year with precautions that next Thanksgiving we shall still write "Glendale, California" as our home address—not "22,222 Brand Boulevard, Los Angeles, Cal."

FIRST CHURCH BASKET BALL GAME DEC. 4

Church School League to Open the Winter Season

IN HIGH GYMNASIUM

Presbyterians to Meet Methodists in Evening Play

The first major league game scheduled for the Glendale church school basketball league will take place on December 4 in the high school gymnasium at 7 o'clock, when the Presbyterians will play the Methodists. The league has become part of the Community Service. The purpose of the league, which has just been organized, is to further the spirit of clean sport, promote regular attendance at the church schools and to create the spirit of competition for pleasure and physical benefit.

The members of the representative council includes: N. H. Dick, First Methodist Church; Rex G. Kelley, Presbyterian church; E. A. Ostrander, Baptist church; C. H. Muhleman, Central Avenue Methodist; Gordan Mize, Central Christian; J. E. Jones, Congregational.

INVALID ELECTED ASHLAND MAYOR

ASHLAND, ORE., Nov. 27.—Among other interesting people elected to office November 7 is Charles D. Loomis, popular citizen of this mineral spring city who literally was rolled into office by the urge of heavy majorities of voters who wanted him for mayor.

Loomis carried not only himself into office, but five of the six council members who ran on his ticket. The new mayor of Ashland has been confined to an invalid chair for 20 years. Its one of those chairs with handles and sprockets to aid in locomotion. Loomis is very expert in using his vehicle, which has the right-of-way at all intersections, that he has become prominent in business here and enjoys a comfortable place in the community.

REV. BRINK AT DUNLOP REVIVAL

"Heaven is a prepared place for a prepared people, while hell is a prepared place for an unprepared people," said Dr. H. P. Dunlop, evangelist, Sunday night, at the big revival at the Tropico Presbyterian church where a packed house greeted the speaker.

Rev. Brink and the Methodist church congregation united in the evening service which added much to the interest of the meeting.

MASTER PLUMBERS' AUXILIARY PARTY

A very nice party was given Saturday night at the K. of P. hall by the Women's Auxiliary of the Master Plumbers' association as a benefit for the Monte Vista home for under-nourished children. To swell the receipts two turkeys were raffled, one of which was won by an officer of Herbert's private patrol. The other went to Mrs. Berryman whose husband is connected with the Jewel City Plumbing association. The party was well patronized quite a delegation coming from Los Angeles. The returns have not yet been figured out.

FOUND INTOXICATED

Windsor Robinson, 3449 La Clede, was arrested Saturday night by local officers on a charge of intoxication. When taken to central station he was examined by Dr. Kaemmerling, who pronounced him drunk. He was locked in No. 1, and his bail was fixed at $300.

VAN NUYS 'BEFORE' AND 'AFTER' TAKING ANNEXATION ACTION

I have been reading in the local papers the pros and cons of the annexation to Los Angeles movement, and I would like to give your readers some facts, not theories, about conditions in one of Los Angeles' suburban districts—Van Nuys. I became a resident of Glendale last April, moving here from Van Nuys, where I had lived on a small ranch on West Sherman Way for several years past. Van Nuys went into Los Angeles solely for the aqueduct water, as it is a farming community and plenty of water for irrigation was essential for its growth. They got the water, but what a price they have paid for it, for truly it can be said that water was all they did get. And in regard to the aqueduct water, let me say right here that the supply is not as great as is generally believed. The reservoirs have been emptied every year before the irrigating season was over, and all of the water needed in the valley was not available. Too, when these reservoirs get low, the water is positively filthy and not fit for a human being to drink. It is generally known out there that the aqueduct will have to be enlarged, and that right soon. More bonds.

Telephone rate to Los Angeles was 10 cents when Van Nuys was admitted, but was raised to 20 cents during the war, which rate is in effect today.

Pacific Electric fare to Los Angeles was not lowered at all. The round trip fare of 75 cents in effect today was in effect ten years ago.

Sewer: Van Nuys, of course, has not had a sewer system, cesspools being the method of handling all sewage. However, Van Nuys has been included in the assessment district for the new outfall sewer system and they have to pay their share of the bonds, yet it is admitted that they will not be able to connect with same. Many of the Van Nuys people resent this fact.

When Van Nuys district was admitted to Los Angeles it had one of the finest boulevards in the world, extending about 20 miles in length. Under the city of Los Angeles park system it has had a slow but nevertheless sure death. It has lost its charm and beauty and is gradually dying out. There was also a wonderful lighting system along this boulevard, which was discontinued shortly after coming into Los Angeles. The cry of the city officials was "We have no funds."

Van Nuys has had several severe floods during the rainy seasons in the past few years. The one last year was the most severe during my residence there. Most of the streets in Van Nuys and Sherman Way for a considerable distance east and west of Van Nuys were covered with mud, sand and water from one to three feet in depth. It has been less than three months since the debris has been removed from Sherman Way, and if our annexation friends will go out to Van Nuys today they will see everything just as the flood left it eight months ago. Again the city officials cry "no funds." What would we in Glendale do under similar conditions? Would we stand for it? Not much. If our city officials hadn't found some way of cleaning up the streets we would have had a new city council and city manager. It would indeed be time to annex to something. But alas, the citizens of that suburban district of Los Angeles can do nothing but be resigned to their fate and take their medicine. This is part of the price they paid for what they had to have—the aqueduct water.

As far as city service is concerned at Van Nuys, there isn't any such thing. Promises made by the city council and other city officials are worth as much as a snowball in Imperial valley in August. The sentiments I have expressed here I know are the sentiments of a large majority of the Van Nuys community.

I wish to say in conclusion that I wish that those citizens of Glendale who are so anxious to get into Los Angeles right away, regardless, could live in the Van Nuys district for one year, and I am sure that they would be fully cured of any further desire to rush headlong into the city of Los Angeles. If these same citizens are so determined to get into Los Angeles, regardless of the benefits received, I would suggest that they dispose of their interests here and move to Los Angeles—there is plenty of room there for them, and leave Glendale to those who are happy to live in a good, clean, live city, where service is given and appreciated.

Yours very truly,
STEPHEN FLAM.
620 West Vine street.

POLICE PICK UP MAN

C. W. Stinson, who was wanted by the Los Angeles police, was picked up at 10 o'clock Saturday night by Glendale officers who were told that he was headed toward Glendale. After being questioned he was taken back to Los Angeles, and was turned over to the police department of that place.

THE WEATHER

Southern California: Tonight and Tuesday fair.

Los Angeles and vicinity: Fair tonight and Tuesday with moderate temperature.

TWO MOTORISTS REPORT SPARE TIRES STOLEN

Two motorists reported their spare tires stolen yesterday: Mr. Van Rensselar, 670 West Lexington, reported that the spare tire was stolen from his machine from his car as it was standing in front of his home. It was a new 32x4 Goodrich cord.

J. M. Johnson, 220 South Manhattan Place, Los Angeles, reported that a "spare" was stolen from his machine, while he was attending church in Glendale, Sunday. No trace of either of these tires has been found.

SWINDLERS WORK UNDER COVER OF SALVATION ARMY

As rumors are circulating that some unauthorized person is soliciting subscriptions for the Salvation Army, D. Ripley Jackson, chairman of the drive in Glendale, announces that no one is authorized by him to collect with the exception of Colonel Everington, until the drive is on, December 5, 6 and 7. After that all solicitors will carry authorizations, signed by Captain Jackson and will be equipped to give official receipts. This announcement is made as a warning to Glendalians not to be imposed upon.

THIRD WEEK OF REVIVAL LAUNCED

Large Audiences Hear Two Interesting Sermons Yesterday

PLAIN FACTS STATED

Earnest Pleas Made for Surrender to Christ and for Christian Unity

By O. L. KILBORN

The revival at the Glendale Central Christian church swung into the third week yesterday with two great services. At the morning hour Rev. Cole's sermon subject was "The Question of the Ages." The story by Matthew of Jesus' trial before Pilate, the Roman procurator, was read. That ruler asked the clamoring Jews "what shall I do with Jesus, who is called the Christ?" And this question has been asked by many millions of men and women since then, was the declaration of the speaker. To all who have heard the story of Jesus, this question comes. It must be answered, too, for there is no chance for evasion. And on the answer depends where one will spend eternity. The plea of the speaker was earnest and convincing.

At the evening service Rev. Cole's theme was "The Least Common Denominator of Protestantism." The sermon was an earnest, impassioned plea for a united church. He briefly reviewed the beginning of the movement to this end early in the last century, which started within a great denomination and was not intended to result in a new body of Christians. But the leaders and their followers were forced out of denominationalism and the Christian church or restoration movement was the result. The plea of this church, said the pastor, is the only one on which all Christians can unite for it is wholly from the Bible. No man-made creed can be a basis for unity. All Christians agree that immersion is baptism as taught in the New Testament and practiced in the early church, while none of the other forms called baptism can be accepted by all. Every denomination can accept belief in Christ as the Son of God and only Savior, while Christendom cannot unite on any man-made creed. And to bring out such unity is the mission of the Christian church, sometimes called Disciples of Christ. Its members do not ask other Christians to come to them, but to come to Christ and to him alone, discarding their man-made creeds and substitutes for divinely appointed ordinances, thus bringing the answer to Christ's prayer in Gethsemane.

The special songs by the Conners and the singing by the congregation and the choir were most inspiring.

This last week of the meeting is to be one of great activity. The songs and readings by the Conners, the great choruses by the people in the pews and the special numbers by the choir will prove a wonderful attraction. And the sermon subjects for the week, as announced in the daily papers, should be studied. If you cannot attend every night, be there when the sermon that especially appeals to you will be preached. Tonight "The Second Coming of Christ," which has a fearful fascination for many and about which there is much honest difference of opinion, will be discussed in the light of Bible teaching. Rev. Cole does not back up any of his assertions by quoting man's opinions. The Word of God is the authority cited for every statement.

Tomorrow night the women and girls will occupy the center section of the church for it is their night. And the sermon topic is "The Conversion of a Business Woman" who, by the way, was the first known convert to Christianity in Europe

MONTROSE BANK WILL OPEN DEC. 9

Change in Finish of Fixtures Is Cause of the Delay

IS FINELY EQUIPPED

Harvey L. Persons of Los Angeles Is Organizer and President

LA CRESCENTA, Nov. 27.—The opening of the Montrose State Bank has been postponed until Saturday, December 9. The change in the finish of the fixtures and interior decorations causing the delay. Harvey L. Person of Los Angeles is the organizer and president of the new institution. Charles A. Haskins of La Crescenta, vice president; A. V. Adkins of Montrose, cashier. The directors are Harvey L. Person, Charles A. Haskins, F. H. Anderson, M. S. Collins and James L. Brown. Mr. Brown being president of the Montrose Chamber of Commerce. The Montrose State Bank will be one of the best equipped banks in the state. The vault and safe will be surrounded by an 18-inch concrete, reinforced steel wall, with the heaviest type door made, which carries the lowest rate in burglar insurance. A Mosler Manganese steel safe will be installed. An escrow department and safety deposit boxes will be another convenient feature for the residents of the valley. A large amount of stock has been subscribed by local people. On the opening day the bank will be open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., after which regular banking hours will be observed. There will be souvenirs for every visitor on the opening day and it is hoped every resident of the valley will not only attend the opening but make this bank their future banking home.

PASADENA MOTOR SPOILS CITY STREETS

An automobile driven by B. E. Taylor, 2415 Oswego street, Pasadena, and in which Robert R. Taylor, 206 South Roosevelt street, of the same city, was also riding, ran past the barracade on West Broadway and up on the freshly-made sidewalk, according to Glendale police department records this morning. The complaint was turned in by T. C. Breitenstein, the contractor who is doing the street work.

After receiving the complaint the local police telephoned to the Burbank police, and asked them to stop the Taylor machine when it reached that place. This the Burbank police did. As there was no complaint on which the offenders could be held they were released, but it is understood that Mr. Breitenstein will swear out a warrant for their arrest today.

GLENDALE BUYS ANOTHER TRUCK

Another truck has been purchased by the city of Glendale for use in the street department. It will be used by a crew, the work of which will be to repair the holes in the local streets. The idea of the city is to put the Glendale streets in as good condition as possible and to maintain them in that state.

RECKLESS DRIVER ARRESTED

Charles Leyhe, 15, 507 South Porter, and Eugene Flynn, 16, 1125 East Windsor, were arrested at 10:10 o'clock Saturday night on Colorado street, between Glendale avenue and Verdugo road, the charge against them being reckless driving.

The boys were locked in Tank No. 2, and were later released on bail.

Everybody Comes to

GORDON'S DOLLAR DAY

PURELY PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin L. Bullock of 517 West Park avenue and Miss Ruth Ryan of West Acacia avenue motored to Riverside Sunday where they were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Berkowitz. Mrs. Berkowitz and Mrs. Bullock are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Ream of 815 South Glendale avenue and son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Forest Ream motored to Bouquet and Mint canyons on Sunday.

Dr. and Mrs. Theodore P. Noehle and family, who motored to Glendale about three weeks ago from Kenosha, Winconsin, have purchased a home at 215 West Elk avenue. Dr. Noehle is opening a dental office this week in the new Monarch building at Harvard street and Brand boulevard. He will specialize in children's work.

Colonel and Mrs. J. D. Fraser will entertain with a family party at their home, 634 North Maryland, on Thanksgiving day. Postmaster and Mrs. D. Ripley Jackson and family will be guests, also Mrs. A. C. Chandler, her son Edwin and daughter Dorothy, who have recently come to Glendale and are living on North Brand.

A unique Christmas gift from his son, Kenneth Jackson, has made Postmaster Jackson a happy father. He is exhibiting a "Warnometer" attached to the radiator cap of his auto and connected by electric wiring with the thermostat in the engine. When it burns green it is a signal that the engine is working all right. When it turns red the driver knows something is wrong.

L. A. Hart, who conducted a real estate business under the name of Hart Realty company, has been succeeded by the Page-Stone company, at 113 East Broadway. Hart wants his friends to know, however, that he is associated with them, and will be there to transact business as of old.

Mr . and Mrs. W. T. Farrington and daughter, Miss Edna Farrington, of 305 East Garfield avenue, spent the week in San Diego. They expect to return Tuesday.

Mrs. J. R. Stearns returned Friday from a visit in the northern part of the state. She visited her son, Harry Stearns at Fowler, Cal., and her niece at Oakdale. She is now staying with her daughter, Mrs. Ed Turner at 118 East Park avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Peckham of 239 North Central avenue, will entertain with a family dinner on Thanksgiving day. Guests will number about 15.

CARPENTERS TO MAKE MERRY TONIGHT

Carpenter's local No. 563 and Women's Union Label League will give a jolly dance tonight at the K. of P. hall, corner of Park avenue and Brand boulevard.

Music for this affair will be furnished by the popular NFAC orchestra and besides dancing there will be a country store and everything that goes with it. Several turkeys will be raffled off and who knows but you may be the lucky one.

The public is cordially invited and tickets are only 50 cents.

BAPTIST FOLKS CHURCH ACTIVITIES

The monthly meeting of the board of deacons of the Baptist church will be held tonight in the church. The meeting of the church trustees will be held Tuesday night at the same place. Considerable business is to be conducted at each of these meetings.

The W. C. T. U. will meet on Friday, December 1, at the home of Mrs. Henry Lawrence, 139 South Adams street. The subject of the meeting will be "Scientific Temperance in the Schools."

Union Thanksgiving services will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock in the Central Christian church. Dr. Winard of the Tropico Presbyterian church will deliver the Thanksgiving sermon.

The monthly business and covenant meeting of the church will be held in the church Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Each person attending will be asked to answer the question, "What have I to be thankful for?"

A social evening will be enjoyed by the members of the choir, Tuesday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hosking, 409 West Ivy street. Special features are being arranged for this event.

When a man applied for settlement of a claim for fire insurance the agent asked: "Much damage?"

"Not much," the man said, "just a door."

"How much would a new door cost?"

"About five dollars."

"When did the fire happen?"

The man hesitated a moment and then replied: "About thirty years ago."

"And you have waited all these years before reporting it?"

"Yes, sir."

"Why?"

"Well, sir," said the man, "the women folk at my house have been at me to do something about that door ever since it was burned, and I just couldn't stand it any longer."

THANKSGIVING IS SUBJECT OF REV. RASMUS' SERMON

The large audience which filled the auditorium of the First Methodist church last night enjoyed a special Thanksgiving sermon delivered by Rev. H. I. Rasms, Sr., the new pastor.

The subject for the evening sermon was "Bearing Burdens" and proved very interesting. Along with this splendid sermon, a delightful musical program was given as follows: Quartette composed of Miss Isabel Isgrig, Miss Dorothy Peart, Frank Butterfield and Dr. P. O. Lucas, sang "Come Ye Thankful People, Come" (Shelly); anthem by the choir, "Praise the Lord, Oh Jerusalem" (Maunder); offertory, "The Earth is the Lord's" sung by Frank Butterfield. At the close of the address, the quartette sang "Softly and Tenderly Jesus is Calling."

MRS. IRA VINTON ENTERTAINS MILFORD CLUB

Mrs. Ira Vinton of 1301 Beachwood drive, Hollywood, entertained the members of the Milford Street Card club on Friday. A delicious one o'clock luncheon was served following which an afternoon of "500" was enjoyed. Baby chrysanthemums were used in decorating the spacious rooms of the Vinton home.

Mrs. Mary Griggs was awarded first prize. Covers were laid for Mrs. C. H. Thompson, Mrs. J. P. Strain, Mrs. W. H. McPherson, Mrs. Reed Heustis, Mrs. Willis, Mrs. E. L. Young, Mrs. Rathbun, Mrs. J. H. Southard, Mrs. Horace Hosford, Mrs. Mary Griggs, Mrs. James Stocker and the hostess, Mrs. Ira Vinton.

The next meeting of the club will be held Friday, December 8, at the home of Mrs. John Robert White, 347 North Orange street.

C. F. Parker of 221 North Central avenue was the guest over the week-end of Judge H. W. O'Melveney at his country home in San Gabriel canyon.

Mrs. Nanno Woods of 122 West Milford street entertained several guests at her usual Sunday informal supper, among them being Miss Roberta Winans, Mrs. Dorothy Welcome, Dick Levy, John Bender and A. E. McCoubrie, Dorothy and Kathleen Woods, and the host and hostess. Miss Winans is the director sent from New York headquarters of Community Service to conduct the recreational institute now being held in Glendale. Mrs. Dorothy Welcome is a very fine violinist, and is greatly interested in the musical development of the Glendale Community Players.

DUAL PARTY HAS PLEASANT EVENING

The dual party given by Burton Kuntzner and Ernest Pomeroy at their neighboring homes on Ross street Saturday night proved a very pleasant social affair. It could hardly be called "progressive" although the guests, who numbered about fifty high school students, alternately played games and danced at one home and then the other. As a good many who had been invited were in attendance on the Girl Scout play, some of the guests were late in arriving, but made up what they had missed. At the close of the evening refreshments were served at both houses.

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS PROMISE JOLLY EVENT

The bazaar, card party and dance to be given Tuesday night by the Daughters of Veterans promises to be a jolly affair, to be held at the American Legion hall, 610-A East Broadway.

The bazaar will open in the afternoon and many good things will be sold, while at 7 o'clock, a very short but important business meeting will be held. Every member is urged to be present.

One room has been reserved for cards and Miss Dorothy Danner is in charge of dancing and she states that splendid music has been secured for the evening. Dancing will begin at 8 o'clock.

An unusually good time is promised all who attend and there is no question but that the crowd will be a large one.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Root of 425 West Lomita avenue entertained with a delightful diner party at their home Saturday evening.

The tables were cleverly decorated in chrysanthemums in pastel shades and autumn leaves.

M. of the 7th day of December, 1922, sealed proposals or bids for the following improvement, to be done according to Specifications and Plans adopted for the said work, on file, to-wit:

The work on a portion of

HARVARD STREET, HAWTHORNE STREET AND ORANGE STREET

and on certain streets and alleys intersecting therewith in the City of Glendale, described in Resolution of Intention No. 1715, passed by the Council of the City of Glendale, on the 13th day of October, 1922, to which said Resolution reference is hereby made for a further description of said work. Specifications Nos. 47 and 42 referred to in said description, are on file in the office of the City Clerk and also posted near the chamber door of the Council.

Bonds will be issued as provided for in said Resolution of Intention No. 1715.

Bidders must file with each proposal or bid a check payable to the Mayor of the City of Glendale, certified by a responsible bank, for an amount which shall not be less than ten per cent of the aggregate of the proposal, or a bond for the said amount and so payable, signed by the bidder and two sureties, who shall justify before any officer competent to administer oaths, for double the said amount, and over and above all statutory exemptions. In bidding use blanks which will be furnished by the City Clerk upon application.

Glendale, California, November 25, 1922.

A. J. VAN WIE,
City Clerk of the City of Glendale.

RESOLUTION NO. 1755

A RESOLUTION OF THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE ORDERING CERTAIN IMPROVEMENTS TO BE MADE ON A PORTION OF HARVARD STREET, HAWTHORNE STREET AND ORANGE STREET AND CERTAIN STREETS AND ALLEYS INTERSECTING THEREWITH IN THE CITY OF GLENDALE.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE:

SECTION 1. That the improvement herein described is required by the public interest and convenience, and the Council of the City of Glendale, State of California, hereby orders the improvement to be made on a portion of and certain streets and alleys intersecting therewith in the City of Glendale, described in Resolution of Intention No. 1715, passed by said Council on the 13th day of October, 1922, to which Resolution reference is hereby made for a description of said work.

SECTION 2. The district to be assessed to pay the cost and expenses of said work and improvement is described in said Resolution of Intention No. 1715, to which said Resolution reference is hereby made for further description of said assessment district.

SECTION 3. Bonds will be issued as provided for in said Resolution of Intention No. 1715.

SECTION 4. The Glendale Daily Press, a daily newspaper of general circulation, published and circulated in said City of Glendale, is hereby designated as the newspaper in which this Resolution and notice inviting street work proposals shall be published in the manner and form and by the persons required by law.

SECTION 5. The City Clerk of the City of Glendale is hereby directed to post conspicuously for five days on or near the chamber door of the Council, in the manner and form required by law, a notice with Specifications, inviting street work proposals or bids for doing said work; and said City Clerk is hereby directed to publish for two days in said newspaper hereby designated for that purpose, as aforesaid, in the manner and in the form required by law, a notice of said work inviting sealed proposals or bids for doing said work, and referring to the Specifications posted or on file.

Said notice shall require all proposals or bids offered to be accompanied by a certified check or bond, either, as prescribed by law, and for an amount not less than ten per cent of the aggregate of the proposal. Said City Clerk is also hereby directed to publish this Resolution for two days, in the manner required by law, in said newspaper designated for that purpose, as aforesaid.

Adopted and approved this 23rd day of November, 1922.

Truths in Epigram

Heaven's gates are not so highly arched as princes' palaces; they that enter there must go upon their knees. — Bishop Heber.

Common sense is genius in its working dress.—Anonymous

Apology is only egoism wrong side out.—Holmes.

"AMERICA FIRST"

There is a group, partly made up of men in public life, who have adopted the slogan "America First." There is lack of assurance that this is exactly what they mean. Their slogan would be more nearly an expression of their intent were it to be changed to "America Only." The idea inspiring them seems to be to let the rest of the world severely alone; as though this were a possible course.

Times come, however, when "America First" seems to befit the situation. Such a time is here now, and marked by the effort to pass a ship subsidy bill. And just at the moment that the customary slogan of the group would be appropriate, would be the natural utterance or sentiment of a patriot, the group abandons its position, and fights the measure. In the important matter of a merchant marine its members desire America to be last, or not to be at all. For once the group had the opportunity to work in unison with former opponents for the common good, It spurned the opportunity. It would rather be isolated than be right.

After the plea made by President Harding it is difficult to see how the foes of the subsidy measure can have the hardihood to continue their fight. They have been shown, not only that in no other way may a merchant marine be maintained, but that the cost of maintenance will be no appreciable burden to the beneficiaries. Farmers are among the beneficiaries, and yet they are reported as against the bill. If so, it is because they have been imposed upon, deceived, and have not yet learned the truth. Under present arrangements government shipping is a tremendous drag on the treasury. To dispose of the ships is impossible. There is no market for them save as they may enter the merchant service. In the absence of a subsidy there can be no such service. Congress is in duty bound to legislate for America, despite a clique that shouts "America First" but evidently means something else.

ABOUT BURNING COLLEGES

A hard headed capitalist of Brooklyn, maker of elevators, was solicited to contribute to a women's college. His response was a statement that all such colleges ought to be burned. This was far from being the contribution sought, and still it may be not without value. It will serve to call attention to such colleges, to the really admirable work they accomplish, and also may incite somebody to read a lesson to the hard-headed person. He may know how to construct an elevator, to install it and to ride in it, but he does not know where to get off, as the saying is. Doubtless some feminine student body will tell him.

The Brooklyn capitalist avers that young women do not need to be educated, other than to leave off smoking cigarettes, using slang, laying aside their brazen manners, their paint and powder, lipsticks and high heels. The old grouch! He adds that when they are graduated from college they do not know how to write a decent hand, know nothing of the English language, but have their minds twisted with psychology, logic, philosophy and a "lot of such stuff." He thinks that were girls taken from college and put at hard manual labor they might get a trace of sense.

The exclamatory comment above may be considered as repeated at this point.

Doubtless the college has faults, and the students lack perfection. This is no reason why a splenetic elevator-maker should elevate himself above the realm of common sense, or go down into the deeps of stupidity. His own training has been neglected. Probably it was had in the school of hard knocks, and one of the knocks gave him compression of the intelligence. He does not present the subject in a form that constitutes any reason for discussing it.

LIVING ON THE MINIMUM

Discussion of the minimum wage for women generally overlooks the fact that women who work for a living do not desire to continue at the lowest level of income. Acceptance of the minimum wage is the indication of existing necessity, and not of a sense of satisfaction. The woman forced to take what she can get, hopes to become capable of earning more, or to be relieved of the obligation to be a wage-earner. The girl who begins her apprentice task for moderate pay, and at last achieves the right to demand the pay of a full-fledged employee, never will be satisfied with any sum that may be legally designated as minimum wage. If she did not hope to do better, her outlook would be drab, indeed. As a matter of fact she does hope to do better, and so she manages to remain cheerful.

Many who receive the minimum wage do not support themselves, their circumstances not requiring this. They live at home with parents, their board and lodging costing them nothing, or costing only a nominal sum. What they earn they are at liberty to expend in personal adornment if they desire. To such the minimum wages does not represent hardship. Similarly, married women earn money, being one of several in the household to do so, and the aggregate is sufficient for comfort and even for saving.

The woman who must take complete care of herself on the minimum wage has to exercise the utmost economy, and even then will be deprived of much that is reckoned essential. A slight change in the scale in her favor would mean little. The brightest prospect she faces is in acquiring skill, a knowledge of the business in which she is engaged, a facility for making herself useful. Thus she may get clear away from the minimum, and receive wages according to her individual worth.

Automobiles entering California are to be inspected and disinfected. The plan is not part of the anti-bootlegging campaign, but has to do with the smaller insects that may be stealing rides into the land of promise.

George Bronson Howard was a fairly successful author. He held a position assuring him of decent income. He was still comparatively young. Nevertheless, he not only committed suicide, but his reason for doing so is said to have been financial. The ability to earn money, unless accompanied by ability to take care of it, is no sure indication even of business success.

NEGRO HUMOR

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The negro has several points of superiority over any other race.

Not the least of these is his sense of humor.

Dr. Frank Crane

The negro is unquestionably the funniest man in the world. The negro joke still ranks above anything that the Irishman can do, or the yankee, or the German.

The reason is that the negro is instinctively good-natured, utterly human, and can see the funny side of anything.

Everybody has his collection of negro jokes. Here are a few, which, although they may be chestnuts, illustrate the negro's peculiar gift:

A colored man going to work one morning passed a jail. A prisoner looking out through the bars called to him and asked him what time it was. "What do you want to know what time it is for?" replied the darkey. "You ain't goin' no place."

A guest at a hotel had had a certain colored waiter for several days, had tipped him liberally, and was enjoying special attention. One morning the waiter passed him by and another took his place. The guest called to the first waiter and asked him why he had deserted him. "Well," replied the waiter, "you see, I done lost you last night, boss, in a game of craps."

A railroad contractor employed a number of negroes in Florida. One of them would sit up most of the night playing cards. The employer remonstrated with him and told him that he did not get enough sleep, and that he could not expect to do his work when he sat up until 3 o'clock playing cards and got up at 6 o'clock to work. "Yas," replied the negro, "I gits sleep enough, boss. You see, I sleeps awful fast."

One of O. Henry's favorite stories was about the negro who had been condemned to death by the judge. "You are to be taken out into the jail yard and hung by the neck until you are dead, on the 13th day of August. Have you anything to say?" said the judge. The negro rose to his feet and, after stammering a bit, inquired, "You all don't mean this coming August, do you, judge?"

A characteristic reply was that of the negro who was asked where he was going. "I ain't goin' nowhere," was the answer. "I done been where I'm goin'."

Illustrative of the negro's happy disposition is the story of a man who wanted a laborer to help him move a piano. He stepped out on the street and saw a negro leaning against a lamp-post. "Do you want to earn a quarter?" he asked. The boy slowly turned his head and said, "No sir; I got a quarter."

A young negro had been away from his native town in Kentucky to Chicago for some months. His name was Fred Brown. When he returned home some one greeted him with, "How are you, Fred?" He replied, "My name ain't Fred no more. I done changed my name. My name now is S. R. Brown. That's my name. Cicero Brown."

A negro waiter in a southern town asked a guest at a hotel what kind of pie he would have for dinner. "What kind of pie have you?" asked the guest. The answer was, "Black, straw, huck, an' raz." And if you say these words fast enough it makes quite an imposing sound.

The "Split Infinitive."

J. M. Mackay, New York: "Thomas R. Lounsbury, in 'The Standard of Usage in English,' devotes twenty-nine pages (from page 240 to 268 inclusive) to a discussion of the 'split infinitive.' He clearly indicates that the split infinitive may be used with perfect propriety. I must confess, however, although I have read this book carefully from cover to cover, I cannot find a single instance where Mr. Lounsbury has himself used a split infinitive. Professor Hotchkiss, New York University, says that in his opinion the use of the split infinitive does not necessarily imply any infraction of grammatical purity. Will you kindly explain through the medium of 'The Right Word' why the use of the split infinitive is condemned, while in other cases the splitting of the verb is permitted; as, 'He was promptly informed'?"

Mr. Nicholson: Mr. Lounsbury ably defends the user of the "split infinitive," so called. The truth is, it is not "split" at all. The "to" is not a part of the infinitive, and therefore the placing of an adverb between the "to" and the infinitive is no different from placing an adverb between could and the infinitive; as, He could honestly say.

H. W. Fowler and F. G. Fowler, authors of "The King's English," also compilers of the "Concise Oxford Dictionary of Current English," say, on page 319 of "The King's English": " . . . instead of warning the novice against splitting his infinitives, we must warn him against the curious superstition that the splitting or not splitting makes the difference between a good and a bad writer. . . . The split infinitive is an ugly thing . . ."

Mr. Lounsbury gives a number of examples of the "split infinitive"; as, " 'To nightly call Vesper, the beauty-crest of summer weather,' Keats' Endymion"; " 'Without permitting himself to actually mention the name,' Matthew Arnold's Essay on Translating"; " 'To rather pity and excuse than blame me,' Franklin (1738), (Works ed. of 1887)." On the other hand, you are correct in saying that Mr. Lounsbury himself does not use a "split infinitive" in the book referred to, although he had many opportunities; as, "If men come seriously to believe that ambiguity can be lessened . . . ." (Page 267). He might have written, "If men come to seriously believe that . . ."

Watch "The Right Word" for further discussion of the "split infinitive."

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

Coming rather hard is it?

Not as easy as you thought it might be?

A lot of delay and disappointment and hard work and doing and undoing and doing again?

Good enough!

That is what makes success worth while and what makes you fit for it.

It is the difficult task achieved that makes for strength and spirit.

The easy task does not tax your powers at all.

The thing you can do with one hand tied behind you.

It is the thing that takes all your energy and courage and resolution that counts.

The champion does not train to the limit for the easy task.

But he trains to the limit for the task that promises to test his endurance.

So success in life is an achievement that is likely to test your strength and endurance.

And it is well to train for it.

There are many failures oftentimes that precede success.

There are the preliminaries of effort that put you through your paces.

Masters of men have often failed.

But they did not remain failures.

They rose above them.

In few instances have men gone up from the ground with a steady sweep and glare like rockets.

They have worked their way up laboriously and with difficulty, like the mountain climber.

The rocket descends quickly as it rose.

The mountain climber stays somewhere.

Success has often been delayed until late in life.

The failures that men have had have been merely preparations for success.

It is not failure that is to be regretted.

But it is the spirit that is weakened and made hopeless by failure.

Achievement begins early in life.

Probably the first is the triumph of the baby at the trick of walking.

There are tumblings and fallings and risings and settings off again.

But in the end the baby stands erect.

There are bumps and bruises and scratches.

But the spirit to rise is indomitable.

As it should be in life and in whatever undertaking we engage.

Success is the achievement of a courageous and indomitable spirit.

So when things come hard for you, your powers are being tested.

Your spiritual faculties strengthened.

Your endurance put to the test.

And if the fibre of you is flabby and weak, a first failure may be the end of all things for you.

So far as achievement is concerned.

But if you take failure merely as a preliminary battle.

If you grit your teeth.

If you command your spirit.

If you do the thing again and again until you have done it as you wished.

Then you are on the right road.

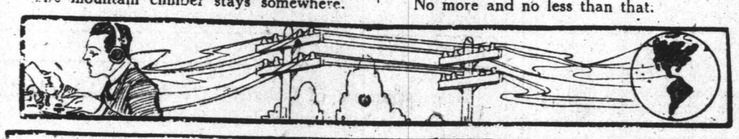
Success is merely the best achievement of which you are capable.

No more and no less than that.



Songs of the Poets

"Great Nature is an Army Gay"—By Richard Watson Gilder (1844-1909)

Great nature is an army gay,
Resistless marching on its way;
I hear the bugles clear and sweet,
I hear the tread of million feet.
Across the plain I see it pour;
It tramples down the waving grass;
Within the echoing mountain-pass
I hear a thousand cannon roar.
It swarms within my garden gate;
My deepest well it drinketh dry.
It doth not rest; it doth not wait;
By night and day it sweepeth by;
Ceaseless it marches by my door;
It heeds me not, though I implore.
I know not whence it comes, nor where
It goes. For me it doth not care—
Whether I starve or eat or sleep,
Or live or die or sing or weep.
And now its banners all are bright,
Now torn and blackened by the fight.
Sometimes its laughter shakes the sky,
Sometimes the groans of those who die.
Still through the night and through the livelong day
The infinite army marches on its remorseless way.

FORGIVENESS AND THE FORGIVEN

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Probation is a kind of forgiveness. Perhaps that is why it so often fails to work.

Forgiveness satisfies the forgiver, but is more than likely to weaken the forgiven. Why should one strive when the results of good conduct can be had via the forgiveness route?

"Fails on Probation"—that headline greeted me from the corner of a morning paper. The subject of the article, a former British army captain, had been placed on probation following the issuing of a bad check. It was the theory of the presiding judge in the case that he would make good if given a second chance. But he didn't. He had gotten something for nothing, and something at that, which he did not deserve.

Why not get it again? That is the usual argument of the weakling.

This is not a protest against the theory of probation. The second chance is well enough if the sinner is made to understand that a second failure means making good on two counts; but I have been in court more than once when a man was placed on probation in the morning and again that same afternoon, the offense being drunkenness. The drunkard knew that no matter how often he got drunk he would be given a suspended sentence and that the chances were largely against his ever having to serve any time at all. He drank and forgot; he cried and was forgiven, and the merry little game continued through the year, with an occasional short confinement until the man became a derelict.

Perhaps the theory of punishment is all wrong, but it seems to be in line with natural law, which is that causes are followed logically and inevitably by effects.

Forgiveness violates this law, rather it fixes in the mind of the applicant for mercy the belief that results somehow may be short-circuited no matter how many causes exist to produce them.

And that is why it seems to a casual observer that probation is injurious to criminals and expensive to the state unless it is administered with the stern understanding that probation means a chance to make good and that failure to take advantage of it is both a weakness and a betrayal of trust, a kind of treason to the social order and punishable as such.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

"WOMEN WITHOUT A COUNTRY"

[Brooklyn Eagle]

When war was going on, Miss Jeannette M. Rankin of Montana, congresswoman, pleaded hard for a law that would restore the American citizenship of America girls who had married foreigners; ignoring the principle that a wife's nationality follows her husband's. She failed. She was laughed at. But the present congress has enacted just such a law, and the results would be amusing if they were not so serious in their effect on individuals. Married women have their own nationality now under our legislation.

But considerable numbers of American men have married English women. In that case under British law the wife is American. Under American law she is English. What happens to her if she wants to travel and seeks to get her passport approved? She is a woman without a country, with no Edward Everett Hale to immortalize her case.

She is not consoled at all by the fact that the American woman, who has been married to an Englishman, has two nationalities, being American at home, and English on the other side of the water. The second absurdity is as gross as the first. In a sense allegiance to two governments, and subjection to two governments may be worse than none at all.

All of which awakes the reflection that it is better not to make so many laws than to make so many that are ridiculous. Empiricism in Washington legislation is a laughing stock for the world. When it affects only ourselves, foreigners are not worried. When it tries to play ducks and drakes with the established principles of international law, it becomes decidedly more serious.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

One pleasing writer says "our battleships are toys to flatter the vanity of strutting admirals."

He is a pleasing writer, for that he affords himself much pleasure.

HENRY JAMES

The misinformation in his brief paragraph is twofold. Battleships are not toys, and to characterize an admiral as "strutting" is an extremely coarse and unnecessary slur.

How the next war will be conducted nobody knows. That there is to be another war also remains conjectural. But should there be a war, the battleship, for all the showing yet made to the contrary, will be the heart of naval defense.

It is true that airships are becoming greater. They are constructed to carry deadly weapons and the men to use bombs and poisons, and other evidences of higher civilization. Such an airship, permitted to work its will, could destroy almost anything over which it elected to loose its dread materials. There would be obstacles to its flight, however. Other airships equally potent would be ready to dispute with it the freedom of the etherial seas. Provided the enemy airship could count on non-interference, it must be accorded a power not adequately to be resisted by attack from land or the surface of the water.

Anchor a battleship in the open and permit the airship to pelt it with explosives, and the battleship is shattered and sunk. This has been proved. But it is not the method of a battleship to be passive, and in war time it would be surrounded by a veritable fleet of mobile aircraft, making its chance of survival at least equal to that of the foe.

Warnings have been issued many times that there is no occasion for the services of a lawyer in obtaining money due to ex-soldiers or their dependents. Friendly intervention, by the Red Cross or other benign agency is not objectionable, but this service is free.

Recently a Los Angeles lawyer was arrested on the accusation that for collecting $2500 deferred war risk insurance, he had charged his client, a widow, half the total. There could be no excuse for such conduct.

Los Angeles violators of traffic ordinances, particularly the speed laws, are being sent to jail as fast as caught. There is hardly a doubt that such rigorous treatment will bring about reform. However great may be the pleasure of going at forty miles, in the twenty-mile zone, it cannot be considered an offset to the experience of abiding for a period of days in a notoriously verminous jail.

Victims of a mining accident in Alabama number about 100. This is the third of such accidents, counting the first as that at Jackson, Calif., a few weeks ago. The Jackson affair was tragic enough, but each of the others worse.

Mining accidents, however, do not come in trios. They come in regular procession.

In almost every railway smashup the old style wooden car figures as the chief center of fatalities. The impact of two trains will grind such a car to fragments, which serve as kindling, and generally there is some substance present to promote immediate combustion.

It is time that the wooden passenger or mail car should be abolished. In fact that time arrived long ago, but its appearance has been too generally ignored.

Industrial conditions in England must be far different from those prevailing in the United States. London police have just had to use their truncheons on a mob of unemployed men.

In this country there is very little unemployment, and a large proportion of this is voluntary. People who want work here can find it. In England often the quest is futile.

Sports writers of standing are abandoning the practice of making ideal gridiron squads by picking stars from the elevens of the country.

The practice really was without meaning. Each selection was according to the personal choice of one writer, who might have been biased or ill informed. Each was bound to slight good players. There was entire absence of any assurance that the theoretically perfect combination would have been effective even if assembled.

Announcement is made that Clemenceau eats four hard-boiled eggs for breakfast. Thereat some whose brain processes are controlled from delicate stomachs, protest in horrified accents. Don't eat four eggs, they cry. Don't eat any egg hard boiled, they add.

Oh shut up!

Clemenceau is fairly good evidence that a routine of four morning eggs, cooked according to his personal wishes, is a safe diet for him. Lusty and cheerful, he enjoys his late eighties, and at ninety is likely to be found hale and serene.

Let it be hoped that his supply of eggs shall hold out, and no cook ever try to put a bad one over on him.

WATCHING THE PARADE

BY JOHN PILGRIM

One of the most self-conscious men I know is Hank Devine. He always has himself under a microscope. The man can't ask for a telephone number without getting tongue-tied, he is so absorbed in whether the operator is laughing at him. Mrs. Devine says he was in love for a year before she took matters into her own hands and married him.

"He'd have been ducking and gobbling yet," said she.

Well, Old Hank surprised 'em all at Boulogne. He and Mrs. Hank and the two ex-flappers who belong to the Hank family, and who are now so long-skirted and demure that I feel I have lost a pair of friends, had been touring France. When Hank was young he learned some cultured French. He could read Molière and the street signs and ask after the health of one's great-aunt's blond sister. But he had no other French at all. His self-consciousness kept him from acquiring it.

"He wouldn't even order a dinner," said the ex-flappers, "and we had to talk to the cabmen for him." Abruptly relapsing into the flapper period:

"The poor old fish."

Of course, while they were in France Hank's ear had become more or less attuned to what the French say is the most beautiful language in the world, and what all the rest of the world say isn't. But, mind you, he had not spoken any of it. Then the customs officials—the French ones, of course—got in the way and threatened to hold Hank's baggage on the pier at Boulogne and arrest Hank for something he had not done, and told his ex-flappers to "taisez-vous," which is insulting for "shut up," and generally behaved like the French deuce. And so Old Hank lost his temper and began to rave——

In French! There's the funny part of it. The ex-flappers say his grammar was deficient and his pronunciation Tenth avenue and his gestures misfit, but he got his ideas over. He backed those customs officials into corners and hollered at them in such impressive style that they concluded that he was highly apt not to ten-franc them, and they went away, saying they were sorry, M'sieu, but such 'orrible meesteks zey will 'appen. Thereupon Hank relapsed into his embarrassed and silent self again.

"Get wise, Dad," the ex-flappers advised. "Forget yourself for a while. Just cut loose."

They tell me he is doing it, too. It can be done, you know, if you try. Just like diving into a tank of cold water. Once you're in you're happy.

CLEMENT ORANGE TRACT SOLD IN ONE DAY

Monumental Record Made in Rapid-fire Subdivision

All real estate records for the sale of a subdivision in the boundaries of Glendale were shattered this week by the Glendale Investmnt company, 211 West Broadway On Saturday of last week they placed upon the market the Clement Orange tract, at Pacific avenue and Glenwood road, and on Saturday afternoon and yesterday the entire tract was sold to the last lot.

This, it is safe to say, is a record that has never obtained in the past and probably will hold for a long time to come. It not only speaks well for the enterprising company that handled the tract, but it also shows the popularity with which desirable property in the elevated sections of Glendale is held by the modern homeseeker.

From the moment the tract was placed on the market, the company was kept busy making out the receipts for the sale of lots, and by noon Sunday, it was a case of standing in line in order to secure a lot, and the late comers were disappointed in a number of cases.

Noticeable amongst the many people who visited the tract yesterday were the number that came from Los Angeles, showing that the fame of Glendale as a residential city, and where the conditions that make for a desirable, permanent home, are unsurpassed by any city in Southern California, have extended beyond the confines of this city and are appreciated by those who have not thus far been fortunate enough to get located here.

Besides those from outside cities who purchased lots in the Clement Orange tract yesterday, the following substantial citizens of Glendale were quick to grasp the opportunity of securing from one to three lots in this most desirable section:

Harry C. Nelson, 117 Fairview avenue.

Thomas E. Brown, 465 West Vine.

Henry T. Paschal, 528 West Wilson.

Lester C. Truman, 355 West Park.

Eva M. Beidleman, 4340 Perlita.

W. L. Taylor, the advertising manager of the Glendale Evening Press purchased possibly the most desirable lot on the tract, facing Pacific avenue.

The officials of the Glendale Investment company have every reason to feel proud of the many congratulations that are being showered upon them and their success in moving this entire tract in such record time, especially when it is known that the prices of the lots varied from $1750 to $3500 each.

A Daily Tour of Glendale Stores

AT THE KAFATERIA SHOE STORE ON BRAND

The woman who loves to hunt bargains, and where is the one who does not, will take especial pleasure in a visit to the Kafateria Shoe Store conducted at 126 North Brand boulevard by Sidney Glass. For the convenient inspection by the customers the shoes are aranged in compartments on the counter, marked with a sign indicating the prices. The woman who takes pride in a varied assortment of shoes and yet wishes to be economical will find joy in store for her at this business establishment, where the highest priced women's shoes are marked $4.85.

A combination of colonial and strap pumps is the mode of the moment in afternoon and evening models. Two-toned slippers in black and beige, black and grey and black and red, with Spanish or Cuban heels, seemed to be favored for afternoons and patent or satin slippers, with French or junior French heels are preferred for evening wear. The comfort of low heels makes this model still a favorite for sport wear.

In the men's department the preference seems to be either for the English or French receding toe. Mahogany colored leather and some black set the color standard in this line. For sport wear there are some very attractive patent leather Oxfords, as well as those combining two colors, these usually being shown with rubber heels.

AT FISHER'S VARIETY STORE ON EAST BROADWAY

Have you ever made a tour of the Glendale stores to see the goods for sale? When you do be sure to go to Fisher's Variety store on East Broadway, which certainly lives up to its name, particularly since the addition was built which has almost doubled its floor space.

Just now Mr. Fisher is specializing in Christmas goods and is concentrating on the kiddies. He has, for example, a wonderful collection of imported dolls which open and shut their eyes, have real hair, and are accomplished linquists. He also has a large stock of children's books including drawing and painting books, and plenty of kiddy kars, wagons, toy autos, a lot of games, mouth organs, Christmas decorations, cards, etc. He is not trying to cater to adults at all in his Christmas stock, but is trying to help old Santa out in things for the stocking and the tree.

AT THE TRICE FURNITURE CO. STORE, WEST BROADWAY

In order to make Thanksgiving Day what it should be, you should serve your Thanksgiving dinner from one of the beautiful, new Italian dining tables to be found at the Trice Furniture company on West Broadway.

These dining sets are the newest things in dining room furniture, the tables being either square or oblong. The chairs have the popular tall backs and tapestry covered seats. And the buffet, with its four compartments, is a very attractive piece of furniture. One can place on its top tall candlesticks or a basket of fruit which greatly adds to the beauty of it.

Then, of course, after dinner, you will want some comfortable chairs to lounge around in. These can be easily supplied in the overstuffed furniture that is being used so much of late. This living room furniture comes in soft shades of mulberry, blue or gray in such materials as velours and mohairs. They invite you to rest in their sofe cushions.

To make the harmony of these two rooms complete, one must have rugs to match the furniture and Trice's have a fine stock of Wilton rugs, in all the most used sizes. It might be a good idea to drop in and see the many pretty and useful household furnishings carried by this store.

WOMAN ON OHIO'S SUPREME COURT BENCH

Judge Florence E. Allen of Cleveland, O., has been elected to a seat on the bench of the supreme court of her state, the first woman ever to be thus honored.

NEW REALTOR APPEARS

Dr. Irvin Royce, the chicken fancier and publisher, has sold his magazine "Poultrycraft" to John D. Roberts of San Diego, who will continue it at the same headquarters in Los Angeles. After five years' confinement to a desk the doctor feels the necessity of more outdoor life. He will enter the real estate business in this city but has not yet secured an office location.

"The language of love is the language of the eyes," mused the poet. "The lips being busy with other things, I suppose," suggested the mere man.

SECRETARY RHODES PRESIDES AT MEET OF EXECUTIVES

Secretary James Rhoades presided at the forenoon session of the convention of secretaries of commerce of chambers of commerce held at Long Beach Saturday. It was devoted to a discussion for the most part of chamber problems particularly the persuading of professional men and women to become members. A paper on this theme was read by Mr. Miles of the Davenport chamber and was followed by discussion.

Following a fine dinner served at 12:15 Senator George W. Cartwright delivered an address on "Industrial Economics," which so impressed Mr. Rhoades and Mr. Sanders that he will make an effort to secure him for Glendale.

After the address a business session was held and at its conclusion members adjourned to visit Signal Hill. They were also given opportunity to see the new Chamber of Commerce at Long Beach which represents an investment of $135,000, and is pronounced the best equipped, most modern and beautiful chamber of commerce building on the Pacific Coast.

LA CRESCENTA NEWS AND NOTES

LA CRESCENTA, Nov. 27.—Mrs. J. Percival Jones of New York, who is the guest of her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jones of Los Angeles, was the inspiration for a charmingly appointed luncheon yesterday at "Cuddle Doon"—the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Thomas o nnorth Rosemont avenue. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jones and Judge and Mrs. Foreparker of Los Angeles.

GLENDALE'S GREATEST BOOK OF THRIFT

The Classified Advertising Pages of the

GLENDALE DAILY PRESS

They are the most eagerly followed pages in the city—thrifty men and women who have particular wants scan the classified columns of the Glendale Daily Press regularly.

The Want Ad has come to be a powerful little magic servant One needs but to wish for satisfaction of a want, and the way is open for fulfillment. For those who want positions, the "Employment" want-ads point out specific opportunities. Employers use the columns to find the right people for the right places. Under the heading of "Business Opportunities," the man who is seeking a good investment may find a list of attractive offerings. If you should lose valuables, the want-ads offer a splendid chance of recovery through the use of a "Lost and Found" notice. So it goes on, through an almost endless list of services that folks require from time to time.

Through the classified columns of the Glendale Daily Press the man who wants something and the man who has it meet on common ground. The transactions are mutually satisfactory and profitable. Satisfaction, Profit, Thrift—these are found to result when you

When You Buy Advertising You Buy Circulation

Everything has a value, even the circulation of a daily newspaper.

Men who have made the most money through advertising will tell you the newspaper with the largest circulation get the best results.

Experts on advertising and alert advertising agencies always place advertising with the paper with the largest circulation — through experience they have learned this the best policy.

Circulation is the STANDARD OF VALUE by which all newspapers are measured — and

Here Is Where the Selling Power of the Glendale Daily Press Is Recognized

Many of the biggest advertising agencies in the country have had their representatives in Southern California investigate the circulation of the Glendale Daily Press, and the result has been big orders of Eastern advertising have been given the Glendale Daily Press over its competitor.

These advertising agencies must make good to their clients and they do not waste money on papers with inferior circulation. They know the paper with the largest circulation reaches the most people, and is, therefore, the best advertising medium.

Experience has proven this many years ago.

Glendale Daily Press

Has a Bona Fide Daily Paid Circulation Today of

5259 Copies

Which Is

1923 More Copies Daily Than the Sworn Circulation of the Glendale Evening News

The new rates put into effect by the Glendale Daily Press are lower than the recognized and just rate fixed by the National Editorial Association for a newspaper with the same circulation of the PRESS.

Advertising Rates of the Press Are Just and Equitable, and the Best Advertising Authorities Will Verify This Statement

The Contract Rate for Display Local Advertising in the Daily Press gives Every Protection to the advertiser against outside and undesirable advertising.

THANKSGIVING EVE OPENING DANCE BY FERLEUR STUDIO

A new dancing academy to be known as The Ferleur Danse Studio, which is being established at 140 North Brand near the corner of Wilson avenue, will have its formal opening Thanksgiving eve, November 29, and thereafter a dance to which the public will be invited will be given every Saturday night. The walls of the studio have been newly decorated in a charming color scheme of lavender and French gray and a new maple floor has been laid. The studio is said to have the largest dancing floor of any academy in Glendale. Classes in modern ballroom dancing will be started in the near future which will have the personal instruction of Mr. Arthur La Fleur, instructor of the Beverly Hills Dancing Club and late of the Modern Dance Studio of New York. He will be assisted by Mrs. J. C. Ferris, and they expect to arrange for special evening classes for high school students. Music will be furnished by a Los Angeles orchestra.

MARRIAGE SCHOOL IS FOUNDED IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Nov. 27. — A school of marriage has just been founded in Cleveland.

Its director, Mrs. Jessie A. Foulk, is a social worker.

She seeks to educate young men and women in the art of marrying happily and to assist those whose marriages appear to be mistakes, "to make the best of it."

She calls her school the bureau of domestic happiness.

According to Mrs. Foulk, 90 per cent of the marriages in Cleveland are unhappy.

She makes this statement after 20 years' experience in dealing with married people as a social worker.

"I know that this is true," she said.

"Of course there are some husbands and wives who will not admit it. They lead miserable existences in their homes quarrelling and bickering continually and at the same time trying to make others believe they are happy.

"But in their hearts they know they have grown to hate each other—it is merely a case of toleration. They know their love has died and their marriage has become a mockery.

"I am convinced all this unhappiness is unnecessary. I firmly believe that the cause of suffering and discontent and discord in marriage is simply a lack of understanding of what marriage is—or, rather, what it should and can be.

Mrs. Foulk asserted that most unhappy marriages are caused because young people are left to stumble upon love blindly.

She gives the following advice:

Don't permit moonlight and kisses to select your husband or wife. Weigh his or her faults and compare the result with the good points.

Don't turn your children out into the world without telling them the seriousness of marriage.

Have an ideal. Don't choose any one person as your ideal, but select the qualities which the one you marry must have. Be sure that you realize just what marriage will mean. And hold to your ideal.

"When a man understands his wife," she concluded, "and a wife understands her husband, divorce will become unnecessary."

AT THE THEATERS

"ONE WEEK OF LOVE" NOW AT THE T. D. & L.

Don't miss the most thrilling picture of the year, "One Week of Love," now playing at the T D & L Theatre. A little birdie whispered something about this picture being a "bird" and the little birdie was right. Action, beauty of photography and some excellent acting by Elaine Hammerstein and Conway Tearle raise this Selznick photoplay to the heights. It is worthy of taking place in the Motion Picture Hall of Fame without further ado.

The backgrounds here are those constructed by Nature; mountains of incomparable magnificence, raging torrents and great spaces of sky! Without its story, "One Week of Love" would be a succession of very beautiful pictures, but when you add a yarn about a high-stepping society girl who falls into a nest of outlaws—you have the picture you've been waiting for through many a film-hungry day.

In support of the popular stars are Kate Lester and Mr. Hallam Cooley who do splendid work. "One Week of Love" was written by Edward J. Montague who has written often and well for the screen in the past. In this instance it is no secret that he has surpassed himself.

Add some very able direction by George Archainbaud under the supervision of Myron Selznick and the production's splendor is explained.

You'll love "One Week of Love" for weeks.

"SHERLOCK HOLMES" THREE DAYS MORE AT GLENDALE

Any person who ever goes to the motion picture theatre for any reason whatsover should jot down the new Goldwyn picture, "Sherlock Holmes," starring John Barrymore, which opened a four-day engagement at the Glendale Theatre last night, as one photoplay which he should not neglect to see, no matter what happens.

Yes, "Sherlock Holmes" is that kind of a picture—it arouses enthusiasm. It is just what Goldwlyn claims it to be—a big motion pictures, with thrills and mystery and romance and adventure enough to suit every sort of theatregoer. It photographs surprisingly well in spite of the great detective's deductive methods of tracing crime; the reason for this is that the screen version is based upon the stage play fashioned out of Conan Doyle's stories by William Gillette, not only a great actor, but an expert builder of plays. Mr. Gillette's Sherlock Holmes was replete with action and with human characters. His Sherlock Holmes was a human being and not an abstraction.

LAUGHTER FILM AT THE UNITED

The film talent contest conducted by the United Theatre, Eagle Rock City, is gaining interest and popularity every day. The several young ladies already entered are busily engaged reminding their friends that votes are needed to win the unusual privilege of appearing in a standard motion picture. The training to be received is well worth the effort, so remember to vote for your favorite. All entries must be in by Thursday, November 30.

"Fools of Fortune" which opened a two-day engagement last night kept the audience laughing thruout the entire show.

"Fools of Fortune" is an adaptation of "Assisting Ananias" by W. C. Tuttle and is one of the "Pipe-rock" series of western stories. Over one hundred yarns, using the same locale and characters, have already appeared and the author is preparing more of the same type.

Instead of finding it necessary to alter the published story in order to film "Fools of Fortune," the author, W. C. Tuttle, and Director Louis Wm. Chaudet, found it possible to adhere strictly to the narrative, even using the text of the story for the titles on the screen. As a result, those familiar with the story will miss none of it in viewing the screen adaptation.

An unusally interesting cast is found in "Fools of Fortune" including not only the lovely Marguerite De La Motte, who is headed for eventual stardom, but Tully Marshall, Russell Simpson, Frank Brownlee, Lillian Langdon and Jack Dill.

DEATHS — FUNERALS

EDWARD F. GREENBERG

Funeral services for Edward F. Greenberg, who passed away very suddenly at his home at 336 North Orange street Saturday, November 25, 1922, at the age of 35 years, were held at 1 o'clock this afternoon at the parlors of the Jewel City Undertaking company, with interment at Grand View cemetery.

Mr. Greenberg came to Glendale about two years ago, and for the past several months had been associated with E. D. Yard in the real estate business. He was at his place of business on Friday and on Saturday morning had a seizure of asthma. After being treated at a local sanitarium he returned to his home and was taken with a heart attack Saturday night. Mr. Greenberg leaves a widow, Mrs. Ida Greenberg, two brothers, Victor Greenberg of Glendale and William Greenberg, who resides in the east, and one sister, Miss Lilly Greenberg of Los Angeles.

KATE M. ANHEIER

Kate M. Anheier passed away Sunday at her home, 208 West Arden avenue, at the age of 61 years. She was born in Minnesota and had lived in Glendale for two and one-half years. Funeral announcement will be made later. Kiefer & Eyerick in charge.

CHRIST'S VIRGIN BIRTH TOLD BY DR. EDMONDS

Rev. W. E. Edmonds preached at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning on "Christ's Virgin Birth."

This subject cannot be approached without feeling that we are on holy ground, tearing open the heart of God. But He intends we shall look in. We used to realize how much we owe to our Savior in His coming down into our humanity. "God sent forth His Son, made of a woman, made under the law, to redeem them that were under the law, that we might receive the adoption of sons."

For the last twenty-five years there has been a terrific assault upon the truth of Christ's virgin birth. This began in and spread throughout Germany; there it spread to surrounding countries, while it also attacked other fundamentals of Christian belief.

In such a case who is the court of last appeal? We will let the word of God be its own interpreter, and stand by it though the heaven's fall.

Every phase of such attack is in direct thrust at the supernatural. If this fundamental truth of Christ's supernatural virgin birth is broken down, everything goes.

They say it is not necessary to believe this; Jesus' life was a historic fact, that is enough, the manner of His birth does not signify; we are entirely free to set aside as false and inconseguential all the record relating to it, it is needless.

But no! All goes when you throw out the virgin birth. All rejections of truth start from this rejection. If that were false all is false, God is false, the Bible is an idle book.

God's angel said of Mary, "That which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost." We have got to take this whether we can understand it or not, we must accept the scripture statement.

Great emphasis is laid by the critics upon the silence of Mark and John and Paul as to Christ's birth. But consideration of the plans and purposes of their writings show why this is: Mark begins with Christ's public ministry, John traces the divine descent, not the human, and Paul everywhere gives implicit recognition, taking the virgin birth for granted and needing no statement; he said of Him, "And being found in fashion as a man, He humbled Himself."

We must recognize that Christ's supernatural birth is a great mystery. We cannot understand it; the work of the Holy Ghost is beyond us. Soon now we will be coming to Bethlehem and the manger; you will not have much left to stand on there if you throw over this. Here we walk by faith, —"My Lord and my God."

Don't expect the other fellow to be dead anxious to do the thing that you hate horribly to do.

TWO AMERICANS TO BECOME CARDINALS

Archbishop Patrick Hayes of New York and Archbishop Mundelein of Chicago, it is reported, are to be named as American cardinals at the next consistory, to be called next year by Pope Pius.

EDITORIALS By the PEOPLE

To the Editor:

Has Glendale or the state of California any speed limit for speed cops? If not, they ought to have, and I am telling you why:

Yesterday morning about 10:30 three speed cops came flying down Broadway and crossed Brand boulevard at a rate that must surely have been a mile a minute. Just how they happened to get through the busy traffic of the streets without killing or maiming someone seems miraculous to this writer, who was an eye witness.

I can scarcely conceive of so urgent a call that would justify such wild, reckless driving through a city's busiest thoroughfares. Better to lose a chance to catch some speeder on the outskirts of the city than to jeopardize the lives of so many innocent and inoffensive citizens in the congested districts.

While we are in the business of trying to discourage reckless driving on the highways would it not be a pretty bright idea to place some kind of restraint on these over-zealous and perhaps over-excited young speed cops. More power to them when they are engaged in right-doing, but human life is too precious to permit these fellows to chase some petty offender through crowded streets at a rate of speed that only Providence can protect pedestrians and other vehicles from.

A policeman or sheriff is not justified in shooting into a crowd of innocent bystanders while trying to hit some law violator. Neither should a speed cop be allowed to become a dangerous speed fiend, simply because he wears a star and has been clothed with authority. Sometimes this authority is fearfully and wonderfully abused.

I am a new-comer to California, and my deductions may be wrong. I have been wrong once or twice in my young life, but what do the rest of you think of this question. I have never been arrested for speeding, but I claim to have a sense of right and wrong, and I am now claiming that speed cops need attention as well as do those whom they are so keen to run down.

Someone has tried to justify the wild ride above referred to by stating that these three speed cops were going over to the Brand landing to see the wreck of an airplane. Even so, I still maintain that these men are not licensed physicians nor ambulance drivers; that their presence at the wreck was not so all-fired important, and that in any event it would not be right for them to arrest a pilot for falling out of his airplane. I am strong for showing some consideration for those of us who are still alive.

OBSERVATIONS

BY A GLENDALE OLD TIMER

Again the annexation agitation has been renewed and while I do not for a moment question the sincerity of the advocates of the project, I do think they are not giving the matter fair consideration from all angles. The unusually high tax rate this year probably started the movement but we, the people, caused the biggest part of this raise, with our eyes open, when we justly voted for the high school and grammar school bonds, both absolutely necessary. Our school tax is $3.01 on the $100 valuation. The councilmen have had blame heaped on them for the high tax rate, but the above figures show they had nothing to do with fixing the major portion of the rate. As to the city tax of $1.55, that was their work, but let us do them the justice of believing they acted conscientiously. All of them are property owners and the high rate hits them as hard as it does the rest of us. But whether they are to blame or not, annexation to Los Angeles would make things infinitely worse. If our councilmen displease us we can easily get new ones. But if we become a part of the big city we can never get loose. We are doomed to remain at the mercy of the council, elected by the city of Los Angeles and some of these members are not the men we would like to have in authority over us. Note the many peculiar proceedings of the present council, as detailed by the daily press of the big city. Again, we now have a splendid water and electric light system, self-supporting. We do not need any other yet. If we join Los Angeles, we will have to pay a goodly share of the interest on the $80,000,000 or more indebtedness resting upon that city, mostly for the Owens river aqueduct system, which would be of not the slightest use to us. So our already high tax rate would be boosted still higher. Another potent argument, to my mind, is that Glendale is known all over the United States and in some foreign countries, doubtless, as "the Fastest Growing City in America." We are immensely proud of this and of the fact that we, citizens of beautiful Glendale, have brought this to pass. And shall we now haul down that banner and lose forever the individuality that has brought about this coveted distinction by merging with the big city and thereby losing our identity as a commonwealth? I say, "No!" And on this line I'll do my share of the fighting for a distinctive Glendale as long as our flag flies. Glendale forever!

A good many motorists evidently think that the hue and cry against reckless drivers who kill and maim so many people is directed and kept up solely in the interests of pedestrians. But a glance at the daily lists of the killed and wounded shows that nearly, if not quite as many innocent motorists as pedestrians are victims of the speed maniac. When two autos crash together at a crossing, someone usually is hurt, and there are hundreds of such accidents. And figures show that many reckless drivers lose their lives and kill or maim their passengers by driving headlong into railway cars or trying to cross in front of moving trains. Such drivers need protection against their own insane desire for speed.

It was my good fortune when living in Illinois to know a dear old couple, Isaac Wilkin and wife, who were a benediction to the community. He was a little, fat, roly poly man, with a wealth of snow-white, curly hair, framing a countenance always beaming with good cheer. He was a friend to everybody and gloom was driven away by his very presence. She was like him in this respect, though more subdued in manner, but her kindly, wrinkled face was beautiful in the eyes of the many who knew by personal experience of her sweet, Christian life. They had four sons, two of whom took up law as a profession and the other two were Methodist preachers, mighty good ones, too, especially the elder, Elias. One of the lawyers, Jacob W., became circuit judge, then was elected to the supreme bench and finally became chief justice of the supreme court of the great state of Illinois. The other lawyer died when about 30 years of age. The brothers were very devoted to their parents, making frequent visits back home, as long as the dear old people lived and both rounded out nearly 80 years of noble, Christian living. For nearly 60 years they walked hand in hand down life's rugged pathway and it could be truly said of them: "They were beautiful and pleasant in their lives and in death they were not divided," for the passing away of these true lovers was very close together. The dear old mother used to tell with great glee and pride of a visit once paid her by Elias and Jake, as she always called them, the one, her eldest born, a devoted minister of the gospel of state-wide fame, the other chief justice of the state of Illinois. After supper and a pleasant chat with the parents, they went up to the little room they had occupied as boys and where they proposed to pass the night together as of yore. When they had undressed to rather tight-fitting union suits, Elias said suddenly: "Jake, you know father went to bed some time ago and mother is cleaning up things before she follows. Let's go down, just as we are, like we used to do 50 years ago." Jake agreed, so these two elderly men stole down the stairway and entered the "sitting room" where the little old mother was resting in an ancient arm chair. She looked up, and happily divining at once the filial love that prompted the act, exclaimed: "Come here you little rascals. Jake, you just look like a fat pig, as you did when a little boy, and I'm going to spank you good, as I did so many times then." For a few minutes there was a heart-to-heart talk over the dear old times by mother and sons, then the gray haired "boys" knelt reverently at mother's knee and repeated the old familiar, "Now I lay me down to sleep." And one was a noted preacher, the other chief justice of the supreme court.

When I lived in Illinois where wood was one of the necessities of life, for cooking in summer and for cooking and heating in winter a cord was 128 cubic feet—a pile 4 feet high, 4 feet wide and 8 feet long. When I got out to California I found that the cord had unaccountably shrunk—it was 8 feet long, 4 feet high and only 3 feet wide. Wood was sold by the tier—8 feet long, 4 feet high and 1 foot wide, but it took only 3 tiers to make a cord. This has all been changed since, by an act of the legislature and now the California and the eastern cord are of the same dimensions. But in the matter of the acre, especially when applied to city property, I'm afraid the shrinkage from eastern standards has not yet been corrected. Not long since I was talking with a realtor and he said a certain piece of property had been put on the market for $13,000—an acre of ground. I asked him where it was and he told me. "Why," I said, "there are but four lots, each 50 by [illegible] that piece." Well," he said "that's an acre." I began to figure. When I went to school an acre was said to contain 160 square rods. A 50-foot lot is 3 rods wide, or 4 of them 12 rods wide. If they are 150 feet in depth, that is 9 rods, and 9 times 12 is 108. If 108 square rods make an acre in California, I'd rather buy land by the square foot.

COLONIAL PLAY IS GIVEN BY GIRLS SCOUT TROOP

The colonial play, "Patty's Flag," presented by the girl scouts of Troop 1, under the direction of Captain Miss Gladys Sharpe in the Broadway School auditorium Saturday evening was a charming little drama which afforded excellent opportunities for good work.

Practically all members of the troop were in the cast and they exhibited talent which should encourage them to continue.

The matinee, which was practically a dress rehearsal, was greatly enjoyed by a good audience of children, and a larger crowd of adults attended the evening performance.

The setting was in Baltimore, Md., during the revolutionary war at "Wentworth Hall," the home of a wealthy widow from England, a British sympathizer, her three daughters and young son being loyal Americans whose hearts are with the colonial army. General Warren, a figure of some prominence in the play, is a relative of Mrs. Wentworth and very fond in a fatherly way of her daughter, Patty, who makes a flag for him. The elder daughter, "Jocelyn" is the beauty of the family and has a train of lovers chief of whom is Sir Charles Marion, an English lord, who enlists with the army to please Jocelyn. When he deserts his post to come to Baltimore to see her, she is very much displeased and sends him away, transfering her affections to "David Chester," a protege of the Wentworth family. Patty has meanwhile made a favorable impression upon Sir Charles who steals her flag and takes it to his regiment to be returned to her stained with his blood shed in loyal devotion to her country, and the usual romantic results follow.

The part of Mrs. Wentworth was played by Beryl Goodale, Margaret Congley personated "Sir Charles Marion;" Evelyn Hunt was the beautiful coquette "Jocelyn;" Katherine Bender was "Patty;" "General Warren," in command of the Maryland troops, was played by Emma Laura Cooper; Margaret Temple personated "David Chester." The part of "George Wentworth," the very young son of Mrs. Wentworth who was always trying to get into the army, was taken by Charlotte Cleveland.

Alexandria Bagley was "Mammy" Susan," the black nurse of the Wentworth children.

Three lovers of Jocelyn—"Lieut. West," "Lieut. Wallace," and "Lieut. Grover," were personated by Margery Hart, Ruth Dana and Margaret Brown.

"Dolly Endman," a chum of "Jocelyn," was played by Florence MacLaughlin.

Minor characters were: "Martha Drinkwater," played by Alice Carpenter; "Betty Alden," Sara Chandler; officers on the staff of "General Warren," Mary Stanley, Lucille Beach, Catherine Stoft, and Evelyn Traver; guests at the ball, Carolyn Ayars, Vivian Nay, Amy Bainbridge who substituted for Alice Hill, Frances Betz, and Lois Naudain.

Musicians who entertained between acts and played during the performance when music was required, were Winifred Parker, Bertha Brown and Lucille Allen. Miss Parker sang, "Love's Own Sweet Song," between the first and second act, and Bertha Brown played a violin solo between the second and third acts.

The performance opened with a prologue in which "Katherine Wentworth," descendant of "Mrs. Wentworth," in 1922, is seen reading the brave doings of the Wentworth family, the part of "Katherine" being taken by Amy Bainbridge. With her is her chum, "Bessie Lee," personated by Carolyn Ayars. The young women after discussing what they have read agree that girls of today do not have the opportunities that revolutionary times afforded to prove what is in them. Then the "Spirit of America" appears in the person of Irina Borthick and tells them of great things that need doing by the girls of 1922.

A very pretty scene was the ball at "Wentworth Hall," in which the uniforms of "General Warren," and his staff were copies of those worn by the 7th Maryland Regiment in 1777, the ladies being in typical colonial gowns with paniered overskirts, laced bodices and lace fichus.

The performance ran very smoothly showing conscientious work on the part of the cast and careful rehearsing. In grateful appreciation of her devoted service Captain Sharpe was presented with a very beautiful boquet of chrysanthemums between the first and second acts.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

THE SONG OF TROUBLED FOLK

Oh, Poet, sing in meter
That broken hearts may hear,
And fuller and competer,
Bring some of gladness near.
The shut-in folks and troubled,
And blind and halt and lame,
For them be song redoubled,
For them let genius flame.

Oh, Poet, know the splendor,
Of patience under pain,
And write a song with tender
And comforting refrain;
Bring them surcease of sorrow,
Bring hope and comfort near,
Bring them a song of morrow
With spirit high and clear.

Oh, Poet, know the sadness
The pity and the pain,
Bring them with song the gladness
That they may seek in vain,
The poor and weak and broken,
The worn and comfortless,
Bring them a song, in token
Of all thy tenderness.

Oh, Poet, sing no glory,
Of empire and of strife;
But sing for us the story
Of love through all of life
That shall sustain and bring them,
Pain-racked and fever-tossed,
Some peace of soul—yes, sing them
The things they long have lost.

AIR PORT IDEA IS SUPPORTED BY FACTORIES

Several other airplane manufacturing and service companies have signified their willingness of securing space in the Glendale municipal airplane field, providing such a feature is established here.

The California Curtiss Airplane company of Long Beach, writes:

"As soon as conditions warrant it will become necessary for us to establish a Curtiss service station and school in the Glendale field, such as now exist in Long Beach, Riverside and Pasadena, this to be under the jurisdiction of the Curtiss Airplane and Motor Corporation."

Following is an excerpt from the Catron & Fish Airplane and Engine company:

"I wish to state on behalf of this firm that in the event of Glendale establishing a municipal airplane landing field, in accordance with our communication of last week, we will make said field the terminus of our Los Angeles to San Francisco airlane and will erect the necessary hangars. Also, we would consider moving our hangars to Glendale."

The Ace Publishing company, publishers of the Ace magazine, writes: "Providing the field is established in Glendale, we would no doubt move our plant to the field, along with the aircraft manufacturies."

PARENTS, LOOK AHEAD!

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Handicaps of Childhood," Etc.

(Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers)

Once, ten years ago, I had occasion to remonstrate with a young mother regarding her obvious overindulgence of her children.

"Why do you let them do just about as they please?" I asked her. "Why do you permit them to think of nothing but being entertained? Why do you give them the expensive clothing and all the pretty things they crave, even to the extent of skimping and sacrificing yourself?"

"I do not feel that I am making any sacrifice," was her almost indignant response. "I love my children, and I want to show them my love and make sure they will love me. I do not want them to grow up hating me, remembering that I deprived them of things I might have given them."

"Nevertheless," I warned her, "you are taking precisely the course that will make it more and more difficult for you to hold your children's love as they grow up.

"They cannot always be pampered. Some day self-denial and serious effort will be required of them. Then you will have to begin to discipline them, and they will resent and rebel against your authority, which now you might readily exercise for their future good and your own peace of mind."

The pampering policy was not relinquished. On the contrary, the young mother devoted herself even more eagerly to "making the children happy." She was determined to keep them carefree, laughing, smartly dressed and always having "a good time." The more "fun" they had, the greater her delight.

Alas! Today she is far less familiar with delight than with anxiety.

The children, now on the threshold of maturity, have typical jazz minds. Bright enough if they would only exert themselves to study and to work, their unwillingness to study and work has brought serious trouble on them. They seem interested only in dancing, the theatre and good clothes. And they are singularly self-willed and resistant to advice.

"I cannot control them," is their mother's wail. "I have no influence over them. What shall I do, what shall I do?"

Her problem is the problem of many other mothers, her grief the grief of other mothers. And almost always the origins of the problem and the grief are as in the instance I have cited.

It is all very well to talk of the flapper of today, male and female, as a product of the feverish, restless life of the modern world. It is all very fine to try to find excuses for the flapper in changing social conditions.

The fact is that most flappers are what they are—unambitious groundlings of deplorable self-centeredness—because of training errors of their early life. For whatever reason, their parents failed to look ahead, failed to take properly into account the truth embodied in the adage, "As the twig is bent, the tree's inclined."

The foundation of all success in life—as of all enduring happiness—is strength of character. Strength of character is not an inherited gift. It is something that must be acquired.

And the one way to make sure it will be acquired is through a wise rearing of the young—rearing which has a basis in discipline, and which is motivated by a love that would build instead of weaken by letting life become for the young a ceaseless round of selfish pleasure-seeking.

DUTY

The duty of a retail lumber yard does not consist only in selling lumber. To consider carefully the individual requirements of each customer, to recommend only those materials which satisfactionly fill those requirements.

To conscientiously advise our customers on the various building problems that may arise.

In addition to the above the use of our complete filing system is available, by means of which the prospective builder can get in touch with contractors, carpenters, builders, plasterers and cement workers.

These are functions which this firm consider its elementary duties.
